is a store of modules. When using i3 lite you get a built-in store of control modules and graphic styles. Thanks to the store you don't have to develop your own drivers to control required equipement, you can use modules, created by other developers.