

i3 lite app can connect to iRidium server through the internet to control physically remote hardware and receive data from it. But to do, it certain settings of your network hardware (router) are required.