

Are modules created by third-party developers? How does it work?