The number of forwarding "rules" on the router has to be set up based on what devices of your network have to receive data or commands from the Internet.