After an interface is created in the studio and a function to add subdevices is added, create a copy of a widget for each subdevice and assign it to the subdevice. To assign a widget to a subdevice the following method is used.