

is a component that allows you to control one type of equipment by its unique ID. The module is located in the store of modules.