

```

// format of incoming Setup data (created in iRidium studio):
{
    // Data to connect driver created in Project Device Panel
    Drivers:
    [
        {
            Name: "HDL-BUS Pro Network (UDP)", // driver name
            Properties: // driver properties
            [
                {
                    Type: "textfield", //It signals that a tex field to enter data has to be shown Name: "SubnetID", //Property name
                    where data are sent Validation: function (in_value) {
                        //Function to check values entered by a user
                        //in_value - the incoming parameter containing value, entered by a user
                        if (in_value != "")
                            return ; //If there are no errors, 0 is returned else
                            return "Please input SubnetID"; //If there are errors, error text has to be returned
                    }
                },
                ..
            ],
        },
        ..
    ],
}

```