

the script file added in the project only once. Usually it is a file of a library, driver class or component. The file contains only functions and objects, not their instances. In the bottom left part of the Scripts window (the script editor) you can find properties of the script file (Name, Global). To mark the script as the global one, set true in the Global field.