

The input parameter of the method is in_Widget - an object, a popup, created in the editor before hand.

The output parameter of the method is True or False (successful or not).

For example, we have 3 lamps. Not to create a separate widget for each lamp, use the ready template of a popup and clone it. Here is an example of creating widgets using the existing template with the help of the code.