

This way you can test how widgets will work for two types of devices.

Also you can change the size and properties of items (size and coordinates) via the code and not create 2 types of widgets.