

When creating a module indicate: a project name and the module style, that can be later on changed by a user. After a module project is created and you can start the development. You have to consider that a module can work on smart phones and tablets.