

Events determine to which values of the SubDevice channel the system can react. For example, if the light in the room is switched on and it corresponds to the set value of 255 of the dimmer channel, blinds have to be closed. The following Event has to be created in the Events tab: