It is not necessary to use all the listed actions and virtual tags, the device has a set of actions and virtual tags based on the functionality (if the device for controlling the light does not control the brightness and heat, the actions for specifying heat and color are simply absent, and there is no sense in the corresponding tags).